Common Misconceptions	Proper Conception
Students confuse the theme of a story for the main idea of the story. Students misinterpret how to writing a narrative in third person point of view. Students confuse stanzas with paragraphs. Students are likely to connect comparing and contrasting as the same. Students confuse how to identify dialogue in a text. Prewrites are optional.	Theme is the lesson learned or real life connection. The main idea is the topic or what the reading is about. First person point of view: One of the characters is telling the story. (I, me we, us). Third person point of view: The narrator outside of the story is telling the story. (He, she, they, main characters names). Students should understand that a stanza is located in poetry. Stanzas are grouped set of lines within a poem, usually set off from other stanzas by a blank line or different indentation. Comparing two or more things in stories students refers to how they are alike, while contrasting two or more things refers to how they are different. Dialogue refers to a conversation between two more individuals in a text, not quoting what a character specifically says. Prewrites are necessary for creating an organized and cohesive essay.

Unit 1 Performance Tasks (Optional)

Goodbye to Lice

National program is launched to erase head lice from schools.

Spiders and bats may spook you, but nothing will make your skin crawl more than head lice. The tiny parasites can infest your hair, lay eggs, and suck your blood like a mosquito. A parasite is an organism that lives in or on another animal.

Each year, 6 million to 12 million Americans become infested with lice, and many of those affected are kids. Head lice outbreaks are the number-one reason that kids miss school. Now the National Parent Teacher Association is fighting back against lice. The group is launching a national head lice check program called Keeping Our Kids Lice Free.

Lice are not dangerous, but they are highly contagious. They easily spread from one person to another. Although the tiny bugs (each no larger than a sesame seed) can't fly, they can crawl very quickly. The most common way of getting lice is through head-to-head contact. However, lice can also be spread through the sharing of personal items such as hats, scarves, headphones, barrettes, and combs. To prevent lice from making your head their home, experts say to follow these tips.

- Avoid head-to-head contact.
- Don't share personal clothing or hair items.
- Use your own sleeping bag and pillow on sleepover

In the passage above, the author presents an informative passage about Lice and preventive measures.

Questions

- According to the passage above, what was the author's purpose for writing this passage?
- What evidence is presented by the National Parent Association for wanting to stop the spread of lice?
- Imagine you are going over a friend's house. What steps can you take to prevent the possible spread of lice?

- Demonstrating Flexibility and Responsiveness

Performance Task (Optional)

You are a book critic. Your job is to compare and contrast characters within a novel. You must include specific examples from the novel (quotes, vocabulary, passages, etc.) to support your comparisons. Create a digital Venn diagram to represent your critiques. When completed, your critique will be shared with peer critics for discussion.

Or

Choose a novel to read during the unit two. After completing the novel students will be instructed to observe the movie of that novel. Use a compare and contrast column graphic organizer to represent your critiques. When finished, students will present their graphic organizers for discussion. Students should compare and contrast the following:

Characters: physical and character traits

Setting

Sequence of events

Problem and resolution

Multiple accounts of the same event.

Meaning

FAIRFIELD TOWNSHIP SCHOOL
Grade 5 ELA Curriculum Guide

Enduring Understanding Essential Questions

Students will understand that...

- Recognizing the author’s purpose and point of view enables understanding/meaning of text
- Evidence in the text connects and supports the theme, title, and meaning
- Dialogue and details help create a clear and coherent writing piece

Questions that will foster inquiry, understanding and transfer of learning...

- How would I best summarize the text?
- Does understanding and the use of language effect communication and meaning?
- What is the author’s point? How does he/she support it? How valid is the support?

Common Misconceptions

By substituting one word for another word students will be able to correctly find the meaning of an unknown word.

All characters in a story share the same opinion of an event or series of events.

The author will clearly state what he or she wants the reader to know.

Students misinterpret identifying cause and effect relationships in a text.

Relations between characters don’t necessarily affect the outcome of a story.

Proper Conception

Students must be able to identify that characters may interpret an event in a story differently.

Students should practice using synonyms, antonyms, and definitions, to help assist them in finding the meaning of unknown words or meanings.

Students will understand that an effect is result of a specific cause.

Students must learn to identify clues to make inferences from the story to detect what the author is not directly telling them.

Instructional Strategies
Fairfield Township School recognizes the importance of the varying methodologies that may be successfully employed by teachers within the classroom and, as a result, identifies a wide variety of possible instructional strategies that may be used effectively to support student achievement. These may include, but not be limited to, strategies that fall into categories identified by the Framework for Teaching by Charlotte Danielson: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>● Communicating with students</li> <li>● Using questioning and discussion techniques</li> <li>● Engaging students in learning</li> <li>● Using assessment in instruction</li> <li>● Demonstrating Flexibility and Responsiveness</li> </ul>
